ARNOLD BENNETT'S NON-FICTION

Call for Papers

Bennett is best-known for his Five Towns fiction, but his earliest publications were journalistic and throughout his life he continued to write copiously in a wide range of non-fiction genres: literary and other journalism, criticism and reviews, propaganda during WWI, 'self-help' books and, of course, his journal.

Presentations are invited which address any aspect of this topic, such as:

- Journalism
- Self-help books
- Letters
- Journals
- Occasional pieces
- Literary non-fiction

Exploration of the relationship between Bennett's fiction and his other work is also of interest.

Titles and abstracts of no more than 250 words should be sent to Dr Catherine Burgass at c.j.burgass@staffs.ac.uk by Friday 26 April 2019.

Selected papers will be published by the Society.
